PURE FRAGRANCES

10 ml

30 ml

Pure oils at 100% concentration.

Composed exclusively of the finest quality raw materials.

Our perfumes, Western Attars, are applied directly to the skin, like a precious jewel, thanks to their pure concentration.

A revolutionary olfactory experience, defined by timeless elegance. A new vision of artistic perfumery, designed to enhance the value of every single note—an elixir to be worn like a hidden secret on the warmest points of your body.

citrusy, floral, woody

A spiritual fragrance, inspired by the ceremonial essence of ancient rituals and sacred rites.

Recognized for centuries for its relaxing and therapeutic qualities, its essence is rare and highly sought after, preserved in the remote heights of the Himalayas. To desire it, to await it, to gather it—this is the ritual that transforms into fragrance.

The nard flower opens with elegance, supported by bergamot and mandarin in an exotic interplay of citrus and incense. The heart vibrates with freshly bloomed jasmine, while its roots sink into a deep, moist patchouli.

Sweetness blends with the creaminess of sandalwood, the sensuality of grey amber, and the softness of vanilla, rounded by musk and tonka bean.

A spiritual connection. A timeless trail. An infinite space.
An eternal fragrance.

RESPIRO/

blended, ambery, powdery

In the heart of spring, Florentine iris settles gently on the skin.

Through open windows, air infused with iris and blossoms drifts inside, softly moving the curtains. A gentle breeze, a sigh of relief: spring is in full bloom, the air warm, velvety, and welcoming.

Iris butter, the true protagonist, is a symbol of rebirth and life. Precious and dense, infused with the damp earth of Chianti, it dances on the skin, accompanied by resinous nuances, balsamic myrrh, and mystical incense.

The base softens into musk and warm amber, finally resting on a sweet and comforting bed of vanilla berries.

The accords come alive on the skin, among narrow streets and dim lights, in the first twilight of summer.

IRMAO/

gourmand, spicy

An evocation of moments, memories taking shape.

A fraternal fragrance of value, stability, and affection. Unconditional, it redefines contours, reshaping boundaries into the form of fleeting instants. It retrieves, from the drawer of the mind, olfactory snapshots of memory. It opens molecules, molding them into tangible images. With its spicy side—cinnamon and clove—it spreads through festively decorated rooms, carrying the scents of an endless childhood.

In the air, saturated with ginger, a sharp note stirs the mind, awakening forgotten aspects of the soul. Meanwhile, blond tobacco—soft and enveloping like tonka beans—smooths the sharpest reflections.

At the base, the moist reassurance of vetiver unfolds freely, in an aromatic sip of absinthe.

OSCURO/

aromatic, woody, musky

Enigmatic, it moves in the shadows.

Moist, like the ground after days of heavy rain.

Visceral, like the wind slipping through the deep, silent green of the forest.

The treetops are its sky; the reflection of dew, absorbed by lichens, its only light.

It rises, revealing its aromatic side, sharp with Provençal lavender.

The cloak of vigor falls back to the earth, resonating through the roots, merging with humus, with the sap flowing through hidden passages.

A moist, aphrodisiac, and deep patchouli blends with creamy sandalwood in a captivating embrace.

Wet musk asserts its presence between earth and skin, in a provocative sinuosity—free and wild.

ROSALIA/

spicy, floral

Authentic, like no other.

An emancipated protagonist of its own narrative, an emblem of strength in utmost delicacy, a symbol of true love in all its forms and expressions.

Each petal is a caress of courage. Like a prophetic wind, it travels across deserts, among gods and deities, beliefs and mysticism, through alleys and their protectors. It has inspired the name of the Christian rosary and given voice to the greatest poets. From the deep south of an unchanging Italy to the regal Egypt of Cleopatra. From the Bible with its thorns to the pure white of Dante's paradise.

Natural and pure in its essential oil, Damask rose takes center stage. In every breath, its olfactory statement is unmistakable and eternal.

It blends, rich and captivating, with the sensual side of jasmine, driven by the sharp touch of pink pepper.

TARI' /

woody, ambery

Spirit of the East, a free soul.

Precious like an ancient Sicilian coin; a metallic symphony rediscovered in the camphor-like humidity of the earth, aged and enriched by time.

An exchange of winds, trade, and spices; of lights and flavors, chimes and sounds. A place of precious blends and enveloping fabrics. A tremor of fragrances at every step, with every breath—where scent becomes a symbol of preservation and unmatched quality.

The unmistakable aroma of moist, vibrant, and deep patchouli emerges immediately: it loosens the soul, awakens it, sets it free.

Expressed in natural essential oil, in the fusion of three precious blends—Spanish, Indian, and Cambodian—it reveals a crystalline facet in the fresh breeze of green geranium.

SACRO/

woody, ambery, incense, labdanum

An inviolable arch, as its name declares.

Gothic, dark, and smoky. Everything is wrapped in dense smoke, in a thick haze. Within this aromatic mist, contours dissolve and the most trivial details fade away. Vision softens: it sees less, but feels more. Every facet comes to life.

Incense, the absolute protagonist, conquers every current of air. A ritual, sacred, contemplative fragrance—the aromatic resin rises, carried by a fresh and spicy stream of coriander. At its heart, ylang-ylang emerges: intriguing, intoxicating, and aphrodisiac.

A pas de deux takes shape and form: warm, soft, enveloping amber awakens—raw, unexpected—blended with oud, deep and moist with patchouli, supported by vetiver.

BRAMA/

ambery, chypre

It fills the air like a cosmetic cloud, white and dense.

Like snow, it muffles sound. Gentle, it softens thoughts, lifting them into a new, comforting, reassuring, and soft dimension. A complex whiteness, rich and multifaceted. A fragrance of certain values, of whispered affection, of intimate caresses.

Desire opens, fragrant and delicate. A fleeting citrus hint quickly fades, absorbed by cinnamon—a warm spice, a nostalgic powder. A soft toasted, almond-like note of heliotrope emerges.

A freshly opened lipstick glides like butter, tracing soft curves that lead to the heart. The memory of a violet-infused kiss lingers, preserved like a powdered breath between myrrh and incense.

The accord remains, blending like honeyed cream, settling into a harmonious base—intense with patchouli, sweet with vanilla, and enveloping with amber.

floral, rich

An olfactory spring transforms the atmosphere into an enchanted greenhouse, filled with corollas and bulbs, where blooming flowers complete every breath.

The sense of smell becomes insatiable for that dense, warm, intoxicating air. Each drop of oil is a narcotic ritual, like immersing the face in a full, vibrant bouquet, unified in every floral nuance.

At the first breath, frangipani and tiare bloom in harmony, adding an exotic touch to the juicy, vitamin-rich freshness of Sicilian cedar and mandarin.

A rich, indolic heart of jasmine, velvety Bulgarian rose, and powdery heliotrope fully reveals itself. Amber erupts, seductive, together with the burning cashmere accord, enveloping a creamy, sweet woody base.

ERBA/

green, aromatic, spicy

A shiver. Lymphatic and lush, green as a primary color in every shade, in every drop.

Vivid, moist, intense; saturated with stems, stalks, and shoots. Bright and radiant, a calming breeze spreads the vibrant aroma of blossoms across a hemp field; like iridescent dew, in droplets, it captures molecules of grass scattered across a freshly cut meadow.

The breath opens, renewed after the sharp, lively touch of pink pepper. An aromatic explosion shakes the Mediterranean air: a marble mortar releases the crushed scent of fresh basil, while a terracotta pot offers the lively freshness of rosemary.

In this just-picked fragrance, still damp with the garden, osmanthus whispers like a softened jam, muted by heliotrope, over the rough intensity of Java vetiver, the smoky charm of birch wood, and the spirituality of incense.

REYNA/
gourmand, vanilla

The discovery of the Americas: lands of unexpected plantations, rich in new scents and aromas.

The triumph of an orchid of unusual shape, unable to leave its tropical homeland, pollinated only by the Melipona, a small stingless bee. Through exports, myths, and legends of the conquistadors, the inspired idea was born to extract its precious pods: vanilla from Mexico, the vanilla of revelation—the true vanilla.

Today, preserved within the fragrance like a queen in oil, it reigns supreme; it dominates the skin, enhanced in every facet.

It fills the air, wrapped in the gentle, indolic breeze of jasmine, softened by heliotrope, rounded by tonka beans within rich, melting benzoin. The heart—warm, soft, and balsamic—blends with rolling cocoa beans and candied figs, creating a dense, creamy scent with a comforting, enveloping sweetness.

marine, salty, ambery

Persistent, like olfactory memories captured within molecules.

Only synthetic raw materials compose our avant-garde sea, anchoring its strength to the skin.

Vivid sounds, from which fragrances and deep notes resurface. Warm, salty afternoons, cradled by golden, rolling landscapes. Slow steps impressed in damp sand, dried by the warm wind, among shimmering grains infused with sun and salt.

In the Calone wind, breaths become open, unstoppable, and deep—like on a boat just set sail, in the dry gust that fills the sails and brings back an endless, fresh saltiness to the face with every turn.

The captured air, savory and dry, softens with Ambroxan; it remains infused with sea salt, lightness, and whispered symphonies resting gently against ears laid upon seashells.

CLORIDE/

fresh floral, musky

In spring, love blooms.

It blossoms gently, unfolding the new season like the first linen dress taken from the wardrobe, ready to flutter in the warm breeze.

The heart, cradled by an innocent awareness, surrenders to the creamy sweetness of magnolia and the intoxicating breath of pittosporum. Then, a hint of tuberose quickens the pulse, adding a subtle sensuality.

The bud takes shape, rooted in a soft bed of ambrette seeds, extending its persistence with grey amber and musk. Now complete, it is ready to surprise once more with lily of the valley blooming in shifting notes: this fragrance is ready to leave its mark.

ECO-PACKAGING

MONOM's packaging embodies the elegance and refinement of a quiet, understated luxury. It is crafted from premium 100% recycled black paper, featuring a glossy hot-stamped logo that echoes the polished glass surface of the 10 ml bottle, the brand's signature format.

Inside, the packaging is made entirely of matte, 100% recycled and recyclable paper, creating a dedicated niche that holds the 10 ml bottle within its perfume pouch. This pouch is produced using leftover materials from the manufacturing process that would otherwise be discarded due to their small size.

Perfume, in its purest form. The slow pursuit of essence.

Bologna, 2010.

From Renato Bongiorno's long-standing experience in the world of perfumery comes the desire to create something beyond market conventions: a fragrance that is authentic, essential, and surprising.

An idea that takes shape each evening, through reflection and imagination, until it becomes a shared vision with his son Simone, a chemist and sensitive interpreter of the olfactory universe. Together, they envision a line of pure perfumes, alcohol-free, crafted with the finest raw materials and designed to last on the skin.

In 2013, the meeting with perfumer Nicola Bianchi marks a turning point. The first compositions are born: deep, intimate creations capable of telling emotions through a single dominant note—amber, vanilla, musk, patchouli—around which an entire world is built.

In 2015, the first collection was launched: seven fragrances enclosed in precious polarized glass vials with a roll-on applicator, restoring to the skin the slow, personal gesture of oil-based perfumery.

In 2024, Simone takes the helm.

aromatic, resinous, woody

In the silence of the desert, life endures.

Between warm stone and arid earth, aromatic herbs find their way, vibrating under the sun with a quiet yet tenacious strength.

The breath opens with green and pungent notes: rosemary and thyme ignite the air, while petitgrain and cypress trace a luminous freshness.

Then the composition takes root, among warm woods and deep resins: Labdanum and Cedars build an intense, solid and enveloping structure.

Finally, time slows down. Incense emerges, sacred and persistent, wrapped in the softness of Sandalwood and ambered, musky nuances.

It is a hidden refuge, an intimate and protected place, where light turns into warmth and the fragrance becomes presence.
